The book is a quest for why Jesus wept because of Lazarus. To find out what was so special about Lazarus. The answers found were more complicated than the quest, itself, so more explanations were sought. The story that was told by an unseen being was used to relate to the situations of life as it affects us today.

Especially, in this time of global unrest and wars, the future appears increasing uncertain - with people projecting their fears onto others under the pretext of defending their religion or their religious way of life. Some even make hate speeches against the beliefs others hold dear.

Developing nations are suffering; they face poverty, corruption, human right abuses, wars, and conflicts among others. However, within their grasp, there is a way outâ€ if they can collectively will it.

With so many happenings that are difficult to understand or explain, I hope this book will be a starting point for all positive minded people i.e. those who have tried, and those still trying to create a more peaceful worldâ€ people who are just and unbiased in their desire for true freedom and equality for all humanity.

The book is inspirational, motivational, and some can find it mystical. The book, above all, made a call for religious tolerance because it is, truly, time.
